Red Cross helps those in need

By Scott Cousins

When disaster strikes, the American Red Cross is there. And the organization's Tri-City Chapter is here.

The local chapter — with approximately 90 volunteers, one full-time and one part-time staff member — provides services ranging from sending disaster teams anywhere in the country to teaching CPR and first aid.

Ron Streller, chapter manager, said most people have a natural desire to help others.

"They see a disaster like (the bombing in) Oklahoma and want to help right away," he said.

In the past few years, local members have gone to Los Angeles for the earthquake, and Branson, Mo. for floods.

Locally, the big event was the flood of 1993.

"It was incredible," Streller said. "We had 40-50 families who were evacuated, we handled water

Venice considering garbage fee

By Scott Cousins

Staff writer

The Venice City Council will consider a monthly garbage collection fee to pay for new city vehicles at its next meeting.

The proposed fee, between $5 and $10 per month, would be used to pay for garbage trucks and police cars. A new tax and higher vehicle sticker fees to pay for the vehicles were also discussed, but Mayor Tyrone Echols and the council appeared to lean toward the garbage fee.

Although any type of tax or fee hike is unpopular, Echols said something was going to have to be done because of the deterioration of the city's vehicles.

"Somewhere along the way, whether we like it or not, we're going to have to consider the prospect," he said.

In February, the council had a public meeting on new vehicles and how to pay for them, but nobody attended.

On Tuesday, the council instructed City Attorney Caspar Nighobossian, who also serves as Madison's city attorney, to bring the council copies of Madison's garbage fee ordinances to the next meeting.

The council also authorized the city to send several officials to look at used garbage trucks. The trucks would cost about $14,000, compared to $65,000 for a new truck.

"It makes more sense to go and spend $14,000 than $65,000," Echols said.

The council also instructed Police Chief James Bennett to get information on new police cars from Madison Chief Paul Bargiel.

Freeze may delay tax bills

Processing of more than 9,000 applications for the new senior citizens tax assessment freeze may delay mailing of 1995 Madison County property tax bills by a month.

Property owners probably won't complain, but school districts and other taxing bodies that depend on tax revenues to pay obligations could be forced to borrow.

Bills in recent years have been mailed around June 1 but probably won't go out until late June this year. The first installment would be due a month later.

"I don't think it could have gone any more smoothly under the circumstances," said Rudy Papa, chairman of the County Board's Tax Cycle Committee. "It's one of those things with the quirk in the law last fall."

The freeze, enacted by the Legislature last year, benefits homeowners 65 and older who have household incomes less than $35,000. The legislation set an application deadline of Dec. 1, but the law didn't take effect until Nov. 30 after the Legislature overrode Gov. Jim Edgar's veto. Applications were not available until after the original deadline so it was extended to Feb. 15.

The county's Board of Review normally completes its work in December or January, but the extra work created by the freeze kept it in session until March.

"At first I thought we would have just enough cushion in reserves that the delay would not force us to borrow. But we have three payrolls to meet in June and each one is about $940,000."

— Gene Logas
School official

County Treasurer John Shimkus said the Board of Review had to complete its work before the county assessment abstract could be submitted to the Illinois Department of Revenue.

"It just delayed the things that needed to be done," he said.

Supervisor of Assessments Bob Harris said the change also necessitated a rewrite of the county's computer program. (See TAXES, Page 10A)

Raceway planning drag strip project

By Scott Cousins

Staff writer

The second phase of a three-part improvement program at Gateway International Raceway is about to leave the starting line.

Last week Korte Construction Company of St. Louis was awarded the overall construction management contract for the development of the facility, located on Illinois 203 in Madison.

In early November, Chris Pook of The Grand Prix Association of Long Beach Inc., of Long Beach, Calif., announced the purchase of the track.

At that time, GPAA announced it would develop a state-of-the-art motor sports complex with the goal of operating national events sanctioned by the National Hot Rod Association on a championship-caliber, quarter-mile drag strip and major Stock Car and Indy Car track on a 13-mile, medium-banked oval track.

The first phase, general improvements to the grounds, is "well underway," according to Robin Weinrich, general manager of Gateway.

The second phase will be the relocation of the drag strip to the western part of the property. The third stage will be replacing the oval track.

At present, the drag strip and track are in the same area. When all projects are complete, Weinrich said both tracks will be able to operate simultaneously.

Korte Construction and the design team will immediately begin a study of the newest NHRA-sanctioned facilities and will meet with NHRA corporate staff members to design the new complex at Gateway.

"The all-new Gateway International Raceway will bring major league motor sports to the St. Louis metropolitan region for the first time and have a huge economic impact in our region," said Dennis Calvert, senior vice president of (See RACEWAY, Page 10A)

Track team looks to state

Stephanie Brandt will be shooting for a return trip to the state track meet this week when Granite City travels to compete in the Highland Class AA Sectional.

Brandt, a sophomore discus thrower for the Lady Warriors, has enjoyed another strong season after an outstanding freshman year.

Last year, Brandt qualified for state in the discus and placed seventh after going undefeated in the event during the regular season.

On Friday, Brandt and the Lady Warriors will look to extend their season to the state meet May 19-20 at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston. Brandt won a sectional championship in the discus last year, and she will look to defend her title in a field of 17 teams. The two individuals and relay teams in each event advance to state, along with individuals who meet this year's state qualifying mark.

The state qualifying mark in the discus this year is 117 feet, 0 inches. Brandt's throws have surpassed the mark all season.

Brandt is carrying on a family tradition started by her oldest sister, Debbie, at GCHS. Two other sisters, Dianna Brandt and Vicki Brandt, also threw the discus while at GCHS. Debbie Brandt advanced to state and placed fourth twice, and she holds the school record with a throw of 136-1 set in 1985.

Ten years later, Stephanie Brandt is looking to break her sister's record and return to state. For a closer look, see page 1B.

THE VOICE BOX:

Should properly trained citizens be allowed to carry concealed weapons?

By SHIRLEY VALENCIA

Bill Struben Granite City
"I don't think anyone should carry a concealed weapon. Most people, even trained people, get excited in certain situations. They could hurt innocent people."

Larry Dusay Granite City
"No, we have enough trouble on the streets now. I think things would really get out of hand then. You would have everyone trying to play cops. Not only good guys would have them, the bad would also."

Andrea Jones Granite City
"Yes, considering they were never a convicted felon and they have very strict training."

Abraham Haile Granite City
"No, you should be able to walk our streets peacefully and with no fear of the person coming toward you. We need to trust each other; not be afraid of each other. People with weapons are dangerous."

Walt Phillips Granite City
"Definitely yes, providing you use common sense. If you see crime going on, you may be able to prevent it. This also lets your perpetrator know that you may have a weapon also."

NRA takes heat in fight over concealed weapons

Opponents of a concealed weapons bill took aim at the National Rifle Association, characterizing the pro-gun group's rhetoric as hate-mongering.

At a news conference Tuesday, state Sen. John Cullerton, D-Chicago, said the NRA is controlled by extremists who "hatefully" attack law officers. "This has fostered the cause of militant individuals in this country who carry out violent acts."

Cullerton and others who fear that a concealed gun law may soon be approved by the state Senate said the NRA promotes inflammatory rhetoric that destroys its credibility. Cullerton said instructions to build "baby food bombs" can be found on an NRA computer bulletin board.

The step-by-step instructions detail how to use a baby food jar and shotgun shells to make bombs so powerful that "the explosion can actually twist and mangle the frame" of a car, he said.

"Anyone who puts a recipe for bombs on their computer bulletin board is asking for trouble," said Dan Kotowski, project coordinator for the Illinois Council Against Handgun Violence.

He said he was "very concerned" that the Senate may approve the concealed weapons bill, which is being intensely promoted by the Illinois State Rifle Association, the state branch of the NRA.

"We are hoping that the senators come to their senses (and vote against this bill)," Kotowski said.

NRA officials could not be reached for comment despite repeated attempts. However, Glad Hall, president of the Southern Illinois Patriots League, said information about bomb building is abundant on the Internet computer network and in other sources.

"All that information is available in any good library," Hall said, noting that chemistry and physics books contain information on explosives.

"In order to stop this type of thing, what do you propose — a book burning?" Hall said. "That is the price of freedom."

He said his organization is not affiliated with the NRA but has similar goals. He also stressed that the Patriots League is not a militia.

Opponents of the measure also cited a fund-raising letter in which NRA President Wayne LaPierre wrote: "Waco and the Branch Davidians... Not too long ago, it was unthinkable for federal agents wearing Nazi bucket helmets and black storm trooper uniforms to attack law-abiding citizens."

"It is time for the NRA to tone down its hateful rhetoric against law enforcement officers," said Sen. Arthur Bernman, D-Chicago.

16-year-old guilty in beating death

Sixteen-year-old Kareem Jett of Edwardsville was convicted late Thursday of murdering an 87-year-old Troy man and trying to kill the man's elderly acquaintance.

Prosecutors will seek life in prison for Jett, whose accomplice, Anthony Townsend, 19, has pleaded guilty to the attacks and faces a life sentence.

Jett clutched his attorney's hand when a Madison County judge announced the jury's guilty verdicts on all charges: first-degree murder, attempted first-degree murder, armed robbery and home invasion.

The jury deliberated about 9½ hours.

Jett was convicted of fatally beating Irwin Dollinger and trying to kill Bernice Boda, now 70. Dollinger died of head injuries two days after the Oct. 7, 1993, attack inside Boda's Edwardsville home.

Boda, who testified against Jett, suffered head and facial injuries, a slashed throat and broken ribs. The couple was attacked shortly after they returned from a senior citizens' dinner and dance.

"We had a very strong case and a lot of evidence," prosecutor Susan Jensen said.

"The community offered its support, as did everyone involved. Kareem Jett showed absolutely no remorse throughout this entire process, absolutely none."

Jett's attorney, Doris Black of St. Louis, said she will appeal.

"I am convinced he is innocent," Black said outside the courtroom. "His mother is heartbroken, as well as his father. It's sad that the police questioned a 15-year-old boy who really didn't understand his rights."

One juror appeared to be crying when the verdicts were read and she and the other jurors were polled.

Several police officers were called to the courthouse to beef up security while the jury was deliberating and the verdicts were read. Officials escorted Jett from the courthouse before allowing spectators to leave the room, which was guarded at every door.

"We're asking for natural life," Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said, noting that Jett does not qualify for the death penalty because of his age. "I'm very pleased and very satisfied with the verdict."

Something must be said about the courage and fortitude of the jury and also the people of Edwardsville. Many of the tips that made the case came from Edwardsville people."

In closing arguments, Black told the jury that Jett was inside Boda's house the night of the attacks but was not responsible for the fatal beating. She blamed the beatings and throat slashings on Townsend.

"It would have been good if (Jett) had never met the likes of (Townsend). We're not denying (Jett) stepped into that home. He may have hit Dollinger. But he stayed right in the doorway, and he did not beat (Boda)."

Jensen, in her closing argument, blasted Jett's explanation and said he was just as responsible as Townsend.

"(Jett) doesn't have a clue why they're there, but he brings a brick with him. Why is he picking up a brick? What are his intentions when he's going into that house with a brick?"

Granite City fire department personnel carry Ivan Johnson of Venice from the passenger side of a Chevrolet S10 pickup truck that was involved in an accident at the intersection of Highway 3 and Rock Road Thursday afternoon.

Two injured in head-on crash

A Venice man and a Missouri woman were seriously injured Thursday afternoon when a tractor-trailer truck struck their pickup truck head-on in Granite City.

Ivan T. Johnson, 22, of Venice and Crystal A. Wilson, 16, of Washington, Mo., were both taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City after the red Chevrolet pickup truck Wilson was driving was struck head-on by the Freightliner tractor-trailer truck at the intersection of Highway 3 and Rock Road at 3:24 p.m. Thursday.

Both Johnson and Wilson were treated for their injuries and later released. Luckily for them, the truck that struck theirs head-on was turning slowly at the time of the accident.

The driver of the tractor-trailer truck, Garth Kuehl, 45, of Davenport, Iowa, said he had the right-of-way and was turning left from northbound Highway 3 into the Tri-City Regional Port when the pickup truck, heading south on the highway, failed to stop and smashed into the cab of the truck head-on.

But according to Illinois State Police, Wilson had the right-of-way. Kuehl was ticketed for failure to yield.

Crime spree linked to drug habit

Granite City police have arrested a man they say committed at least two burglaries, two robberies and tried to hijack a car — all in a period of a little more than a week.

Stacy "Derek" Stearns, 24, who gave police an address on Briarhaven Drive, was arrested at 11:25 p.m. Tuesday and subsequently charged with five felonies, Granite City Assistant Police Chief Kip Pomeroy said.

Stearns, who was on probation at the time of the alleged incidents, was also wanted on a Madison County warrant charging him with possessing a weapon in violation of his probation.

He was charged with two counts of burglary, two counts of aggravated robbery and one count of attempted vehicular hijacking and was being held Friday in the Madison County jail on a total of $200,000 bond.

"The patrol officers did a good job of tracking him down shortly after he burglarized a car in the 2300 block of East 25th Street. He was returned to the scene and identified as the perpetrator," Pomeroy said.

He said detectives investigating subsequently learned that Stearns had allegedly indicated he had a weapon as he robbed a Granite City Park District security guard of his wallet April 23, committed another auto burglary April 25 on the parking lot at K-mart, and indicated he had a weapon when he allegedly robbed a woman and threatened to hijack her car in the 2800 block of Yale Drive April 28.

Pomeroy said Stearns told police he committed the acts to feed his crack cocaine habit.

"This was some excellent police work on the part of detectives and uniformed officers," Pomeroy said.

Leaders — present and future

By Bob Slate Staff writer

Granite City High School senior Jason Talley could have been a hero among his fellow students and canceled school Thursday — but he didn't. Talley was one of eight GCHS students who got a first-hand lesson in city government Thursday as they sat in for various elected and appointed officials in a program sponsored by Granite City Elk's Lodge 1063. Mayor Ron Selph and Mayor-Designate Nick Novacich signed a proclamation designating May 17 as "Youth Week". Novacich said his day as mayor was educational and made him appreciate the job. "The mayor really has a lot to do. He kind of cleared his schedule Thursday so he could show me around. But it gave me some insight into what he does," Novacich said.

In addition to Talley — who served as school superintendent — and Novacich, GCHS students participating in the program were Jennifer Thornton (city treasurer), Erin Robertson (city clerk), Jon Reader (city clerk), Jill Hellrich (fire chief), Tiffany Gubser (assessor), and Jason Wood (street superintendent). All of the students also took tours of the police and fire stations.

Reader said his day with Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen was interesting. "One guy came into the office trying to get some people evicted," Reader said. Wood quickly learned what officials do best — respond to citizen complaints.

"There were some people on State Street who had water in their yard," Wood said. "He was impressed with Street Superintendent Jerry Lakin. He asked me where I lived and when I told him, he told me where the water line and sewer line and everything was around my house. "It was only (Lakin's) second day on the job. He was kidding me about replacing him," Wood said.

The city officials were impressed with the students as well. City Clerk Judy Whitaker said Robertson was very interested in learning about city government. "She was just a delightful young lady," Whitaker said. "Her grandfather was mayor. We went back through the city records and read about him," Whitaker said.

Two in running for Madison superintendent

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A decision on a new superintendent for the Madison School District could come as early as Monday evening.

A special meeting is scheduled for 5 p.m. Monday at the board office for a final interview and possible vote on the new superintendent to replace Ken Miller, who is returning to the Roxana School District after serving as Madison superintendent in September.

The board has narrowed the finalists to two strong candidates and a third alternate. School Board President John Hamm declined to name the finalists, but said they were all in this area.

At Thursday's meeting, the school board interviewed two candidates for the job. Four other candidates had been interviewed Saturday.

Hamm said the board was meeting for the final interview Monday because not all the board members were able to attend Saturday's interviews.

"I want to make sure all the board members have a chance to meet all the candidates and ask all the questions," Hamm said. Hamm said it is especially important that the board choose the right person because of the district's financial situation.

Because of improved finances, the district could be taken off the State Board of Education's financial watch list soon, and Hamm said it is important to keep up that momentum.

"Finance is our top priority (in a new superintendent)," he said. Hamm said the board may take action at Monday's meeting.

At Thursday's meeting it was also noted that the district's secretaries recently voted to become a bargaining unit.

According to Hamm, they voted 7-0 to join Locust 98 of the Services Employees International. The district's custodians are also in that unit.

Miller said the district is waiting for official notification from the Illinois Education Labor Relations Board.

After that, the district and union have 60 days to begin contract negotiations. The board also approved next year's calendar.

The school year will run from August 28 to June 6 — or May 30 if no emergency days are taken.

Cameras may be installed at bridge

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Ordinances, resolutions and appointments kept the Village Council busy at its meeting on Tuesday.

The council approved an ordinance granting an easement under the west side of the McKinley Bridge to Mallinckrodt Inc.

According to Mayor Tyrone Echols, the easement will allow the chemical company to place effluent lines under the bridge.

The company will pay the city $120,000 for the 20-year that money must be used for bridge work.

He said one possibility is to install cameras in the toll-booth area. This would increase safety and provide evidence in case of problems at the booths.

"We've been getting a lot of complaints," he said. "And there is no way to tell the truth of it."

In the past few months, there have been a number of complaints about the bridge, and several riders have refused to pay the toll or complained about the toll collectors.

The other ordinance approved by the council sets flood plain requirements and penalties for illegal development in those areas.

Echols said the ordinance was passed at the request of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, which provided about $1 million to repair collapsed sewers damaged in the 1993 floods.

"If you want to spend their money, you're going to get in concert with what they want," Echols said.

During discussion, city officials said the ordinance would probably have little impact on the city.

The council also passed a resolution to seek approximately $100,000 in Madison County Community Development funds for sewer repairs.

A public hearing was held on the proposal before the regular meeting, but no one spoke. In other business, two new aldermen were sworn in.

Celestine Williams of Ward One and Ruby Johnson of Ward Two were sworn in, along with incumbent aldermen Victor Valentine, Henry Fletcher and George Williams.

All five new seats on the board in the April election. The council also approved the appointment of former police chief Farris Smith to the police board.

Tips on planting a

Beautiful Garden

from the experts at

FRANK'S®

Is this the year you finally decided to plant a flower and/or vegetable garden? You've always wanted one, but never got around to it or you weren't sure exactly how to do it? We have some tips to help you get started, at least with the "how to do it" part.

You've probably noticed that annuals and vegetables come in pots or packs. They're both planted in the same way. But first the soil has to be prepared.

Remove any debris such as stumps and building materials. Stumps can be very tricky to remove - the big ones often need the help of a professional.

If you're converting part of the lawn, strip the sod off the planting area. If you can't use the sod somewhere else, a friend, relative or neighbor might.

Cover the bed with four to six inches of organic matter such as compost, peat moss or dehydrated cow manure. Apply a high-phosphorus plant food such as Frank's Garden Food, Bulb Food or Bone Meal. Spread the plant food over the planting area according to label directions. Work the amendments and fertilizer into the top six to twelve inches of the soil.

Rake and smooth out the bumps and you're ready to begin.

Planting Annuals, Perennials and Vegetables

Try to estimate the size hole you'll need based on the size of the container the plant is in. The hole should be slightly larger than the root ball. Slide the plant from its container. Plants in packs can be separated by dividing the root balls with a sharp knife. Cutting the roots in this manner won't hurt them.

Place the plant in the hole at the same depth it was previously growing. Fill in around the root ball with soil and firm gently. Finally, water the new planting.

Planting Bulbs

Lay the bulbs out in the desired arrangement. You can group them in clumps of three or four, or for a natural look, gently toss the bulbs onto the prepared bed and plant them where they lie.

Dig your hole, following the planting depth information listed on the bulb package. Place the bulbs, pointed end up, in the bottom of the hole. With some bulbs, it's not easy to tell up from down. Check for any roots... they'll usually be on the down side. Press firmly and cover with soil. Water the newly planted bulbs.

Caring for the Garden

Water is the key for any garden. Too much or too little of it can spell disaster. A good investment, a small one at that, is a soaker hose. The gentle weeping action instead of sprinkling, protects tender blooms and young vegetables. Soaker hoses lie on the ground and allow water to seep out into the soil.

Each garden is different in its watering needs. Full sun locations dry out faster and will need water more often. When do you water? Simple. Just stick your finger into the soil and test for dryness.

Your plants need food as well as water. You can choose from water soluble or granular fertilizers. As a rule, water soluble fertilizers need to be applied more often than granular. Whatever type you use, always follow the package directions to determine when and how much to apply. Plus, the fertilizers will tell you how soon you can harvest vegetables that have been fed with that particular fertilizer. Frank's Garden Food, All Purpose Fertilizer and Natural Organic Fertilizer are all excellent choices for flowers and vegetables.

Your next step is to simply sit back and admire!

Heart surgery redefines priorities

About five years ago I read that a man over 50 should have a complete annual physical every year or two. As I was over 50, I decided to see my family doctor and have a complete physical.

My View

Unfortunately, as I was always too busy with work to take time off, it took me four years to get around to actually doing so.

Last May, I finally went in for a complete physical, and much to my amazement, after a series of tests, I was rushed to Christian Northeast Hospital for open-heart surgery. I received a quadruple bypass. Physically, I assume my recovery was normal, but my mental recovery was in many ways more difficult than the physical recovery.

My first reaction after surgery was anger. Why was this happening? Hadn't I tried to live a decent life? Why was I selected to be punished? My wife says I was unbearably hostile to everyone around me the first few days after surgery. Then, after anger came denial. This wasn't anything really important, I told myself. I should behave like a real man: take a few pain pills and get back to work as quickly as possible.

Six days after surgery I was back at work for a few hours. Three weeks later I was flying to a publishers' meeting on the East Coast. On the return flight from the publishers' meeting, the plane hit the runway so hard on landing that I broke a rib loose and spent the next month in tremendous pain. Being a "real man" has its price.

After several months of denial, I began to accept the fact of my own mortality. I'm sure that anyone over 50 has already recognized the concept of their mortality, which is that they will eventually die, but facing the fact of mortality is something else again.

Suddenly I was forced to face the fact that not only would I die someday, but that day could be any day. Even in the best case, mortality tables told me that I have already lived the majority of my allotted time on earth.

This is a sobering realization and one that induced many hours of retrospection on my life, my family and my work. At first I was a bit panicked. How can I do all the things I had planned to do "some day when I have the time" when I didn't know how much time I had left?

Once the panic faded, I realized that I should consider what really was most important to me to accomplish in my lifetime and develop my priorities accordingly. Of course, these priorities must be consistent with the realities of making a living, taking care of my family and paying my bills.

Reviewing my priorities is now a continuous process as I daily face the challenges of how I spend my time and effort. Like most of those who have gone through this before me, I have resolved to spend my time "smelling the roses," but I also have resolved to spend some time to plant some roses as well. After nearly a year, I no longer view my operation as a negative occurrence. Instead, I view it as a message from my maker, reminding me I have an appointment to get someday and I better get moving if I am going to be ready.

This is a message that you might keep in mind as you rush through your daily life.

Skaters take to trail with bikers for ADA

The American Diabetes Association Bike-A-Thon is not just for those on two wheels anymore.

The annual event — which raises money for diabetes research, local summer camps for children and other vital programs — will be open to in-line skaters as well as cyclists on the Forest Park bike path.

Skaters and cyclists will take to the bike bath in Forest Park from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, May 13. This is the first time that another mode of transportation is welcome in the Bike-A-Thon's 25-year history.

Besides the Forest Park bike path, there are three other locations for cyclists. These locations are:

- ✓ Katy Trail, with starting points at St. Charles Katy Depot, Weldon Spring or Marthasville. There is a choice of round-trip distances from 7 to 16 miles.
- ✓ Belleville Area College, 1 mile.
- ✓ Great River Road, with starting points at the bicycle path north of Alton, Ill. — beginning at Senator Vadalabene's Bike Trail or parking lot at Grafton Choice of round-trip distances from 4 to 29 miles.

The Suburban Journals are among the sponsors of this year's Bike-A-Thon. Other sponsors include McDonald's Restaurants, Lichtenstein Foundation, American Airlines, KMOV-TV (Channel 4), KSHE-FM (94.7), Rollerblade Inc., Central Hardware, Six Flags Over Mid-America, Boatmen's Banks and Voss Beverages.

More than 1,000 riders and skaters are expected to participate in the event, which has raised more than $1.8 million in the past 22 years.

Bike-A-Thon entry forms are available at all McDonald's restaurants or by calling the American Diabetes Association at (314) 966-3169. All participants returning $50 or more will receive an official T-shirt.

Ryan halts deal on hotel debt

SPRINGFIELD — Attorney General Jim Ryan Wednesday halted a controversial plan by Treasurer Judy Topinka to give two politically connected developers multimillion dollar breaks on overdue state loans.

Republican Ryan stepped into a continuing political firestorm over the Topinka deal as Democrats in both the Senate and House pushed legislation Wednesday to block the plan.

House Democrats, led by Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville, filed a resolution calling on Topinka to halt the settlement, asking Gov. Jim Edgar to intervene and authorizing the state auditor general to conduct an investigation.

"This deal stinks worse than Limburger cheese. We can't sit idly by and watch political insiders rip off the taxpayers," Hoffman said.

The resolution has been referred to committee.

Democratic lawmakers have been especially critical of the loan break offered William Cellini, one of the owners of the Springfield Renaissance Hotel and a longtime power in the Illinois Republican Party.

Cellini is also chairman of the board and the largest individual shareholder in Argosy Gaming Co., owner of the Alton Belle and other casinos.

The agreement announced by Topinka two weeks ago would forgive a loan balance of nearly $20 million on the Springfield hotel in exchange for a $3.7 million payment. It also would forgive a similar balance in exchange for a $6.3 million payment from owners of the Collinsville Holiday Inn, including politically connected businessman Gary Fears and B.C. Gitchco.

Ryan said Wednesday he was halting the loan settlement under his office's authority to review any forgiveness of debts owed the state.

"This is a matter the duties of my office require me to review. With $40 million in taxpayers' money at stake, I fully intend to make that review a thorough one," Ryan said.

He said his office will examine all options to ensure the state obtains "the maximum amount" recoverable on these investments and that any resolution is in the best economic interests of the citizens of this state.

"Independent financial consultants will be contacted, where appropriate, to assist the attorney general with the economic aspects of his review," he said.

Topinka spokesman Jim Howard said the treasurer "is delighted Jim Ryan is reviewing this settlement."

S. Roxana seeks funds for center

SOUTH ROXANA — The Village Board has voted to apply for two $125,000 community development grants to fund a senior citizens center and a storm water drainage project.

The village will apply to Madison County, which distributes the federal funds, Mayor Danny Wilcox said at a meeting April 27.

The proposed center would be added on to Village Hall, Wilcox said. Proposed storm water drains would extend along Illinois Avenue from Herbert Street to Madison Avenue, he said.

"Will it take care of the problems along Park Street?" resident Doris Dhue asked.

"It'll help," Wilcox said. In another matter, the board has accepted village attorney David Dugan's resignation.

Dugan, who was unable to attend the meeting, stated in a letter read by Mayor Danny Wilcox that an increased case load at his Wood River law practice requires him to travel frequently, leaving him little time to devote to the village.

Wilcox said a new village attorney will be appointed at the board's next meeting.

The board also accepted a low bid of $19,883 for construction of a waterline extension to Casey's General Store.

The bid by G.L. Warren Construction Co. of Edwardsville will extend the line less than a mile from Interstate Petroleum on Illinois Route 111 south to the store on Broadway.

Trustee John Ward noted the bid is 20 percent below the engineer's estimated cost for the project.

The board also awarded a contract for replacing two heating and air-conditioning units in Village Hall to low bidder Kane Mechanical of Wood River. The company will replace the units for $10,340.

Medicaid debt hurting state severely, Ryan says

Few people are betting on easy passage of Secretary of State George Ryan's proposal to slash Illinois' huge Medicaid debt by expanding riverboat gambling.

His "sure bet—no debt" plan announced Tuesday includes 10 new floating casino licenses for the Chicago metro area, increasing the gambling tax to 25 percent from 20 percent, allowing permanent dockside gambling and additional locations for three of the state's smaller boats.

Area legislators gave bipartisan credit to Ryan for at least putting something on the table to finance the $1.5 billion backlog in Medicaid payments owed to hospitals, pharmacists, nursing homes and doctors.

Ryan contends the Medicaid problem is cutting off needed financing for projects his office programs and priority grants.

"If we don't do something now to lift the burden of this huge debt off the backs of Illinois taxpayers, we will be crippling the future of this state and the future of our children and grandchildren," he said.

As a trade-off for new licenses and dockside gambling, Ryan proposed boosting the tax take. The state gets 15 percent and the local government 5 percent of gambling revenue; Ryan proposes increasing the state tax to 15.75 percent and the local tax to 6.25 percent.

"To raise the tax every time there is a panacea needed to fix a social problem is grossly unfair to this industry," said Adrienne Levatino, a spokeswoman for the Illinois Riverboat Gaming Council, which represents nine of the 10 riverboat operators.

Ryan contends if all the revenue from his proposal would be earmarked for the Medicaid debt, it could be retired in four years.

His estimates appear overly optimistic, State Gaming Board Administrator Michael Belletre said. He called Ryan's plan "unrealistic" because it assumes all new riverboats would be running within a year.

Current boats have taken 16 to 20 months from the time they are applied to the time they hit the water, he said.

Ryan has endorsed casinos for the Chicago area and last year offered to try to broker an agreement. His latest plan drew a polite but chilly response from Gov. Jim Edgar's spokesman, Mike Lawrence.

"It is one of several recent proposals that have been made. We're taking a look at it, but I don't know if it has any more chance of success than any of the others," Lawrence said.

However, House Speaker Lee Daniels said he is willing to take a serious look at the plan. He may want to earmark some of the new revenues for education and not just Medicaid debt, his spokesman, Mike Cys, said.

Sen. Evelyn Bowles, D-Edwardsville, praised Ryan's initiative. "I think it's worth a look. It's not perfect, but something has to be done about this Medicaid debt or it's going to bog us down forever."

Bowles said she supports allowing dockside gambling in communities like Alton to be able to compete with casinos in Missouri and other bordering states where cruising is not required.

Hazel Jones

Hazel Alina (Kitchen) Jones, 76, of Hamburg, Ill., formerly of Granite City, died at 9:25 a.m. Wednesday, May 3, 1995, at her residence, following a three-year illness. She was born Nov. 3, 1918, in Leasburg, Mo., and had been a lifelong resident of Granite City prior to moving to Hamburg six years ago.

A nurse's aide with St. Elizabeth Medical Center for 20 years, she was a member of St. John Lutheran Church in Kampsville, Ill., Navy Mothers in Granite City and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post Auxiliary in Granite City.

Survivors include two sons, Gary Jones of Churchill, Tenn., and Edgar Jones of Bethalto; one daughter, Carol Wyatt of Hamburg; and four grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Edgar Jones, whom she married April 4, 1937; her parents, William and Georgia (McAl-distribution in Granite City for 4½ days.

"We were on the job from July 1 until well after the first of the year."

In addition to major floods, earthquakes and fires, the local chapter deals with much smaller disasters on a daily basis.

"We have an extensive disaster program locally," he said.

Many of those smaller disasters are house fires. Streiler said there are between 50 and 70 fires in single and multi-family homes in the area each year.

"We spent more than $34,000 last year on fires," he said.

The chapter also coordinates blood drives, collecting between 1,300 and 1,500 units of blood per year. It also provides water safety training and is responsible, along with other chapters, for emergency communications to military family members.

The chapter has a total annual budget of $130,000 per year, about half of that coming from the United Way. Most of the rest comes from individual donations.

The chapter is in the middle of its annual membership drive.

"We're definitely looking for help to keep operating for the rest of the year," Streiler said. "You have to prepare for disasters; you just don't know what's coming up."

Korte Construction.

Construction on the new drag strip is expected to begin by Sept. 1, according to Weinrich. It is expected to be completed in April 1996.

Drag strip construction is not expected to interfere with any of the racing events.

"One Saturday night we'll be on the old drag strip, and the next weekend we'll be on the new one," he said.

Construction on the oval track will begin immediately after the new drag strip is completed. That track is expected to take 12 months to complete.

He also said new grandstands for both drag and oval tracks are planned. Each will initially have 25,000 permanent seats, with another 25,000 movable seats available as needed.

"Each year as we see fit we'll install additional permanent seats," he said.

Weinrich said there has been a "great response" to improvements so far.

"A number of ladies have made a special effort to compliment us on our new restrooms," he said.

All of the first stage improvements are expected to be completed by July.

When completed, Gateway is expected to provide about 550 permanent full-time jobs and 280 part-time jobs and have an estimated regional economic impact of about $54 million in direct expenditures.

•Garbage

Madison recently purchased used vehicles from the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Echols said the city's garbage truck is currently unusable and probably not worth repairing. And as police cars age, they are becoming more expensive to repair.

Alderman John Ervin, who heads the city's streets committee, said garbage collectors are now using a front-end loader to collect garbage.

Ervin said he has attempted to locate a temporary truck, but nobody will rent them, and the cost of hiring an outside firm is prohibitive.

The city is considering purchasing used trucks from BFI Waste Systems in Memphis, Tenn.

Ervin recommended buying two garbage trucks and four police cars.

According to Echols, all the city's police cars have more than 100,000 miles on them.

Bennett said the department will spend approximately $30,000 for vehicle repairs.

Alderman Victor Valentine said both garbage and police vehicles were important, but police protection was the "first interest" of the city.

"If we're going to have a force, we've got to have something for them to ride in," he said.

Panel OKs notification on abortion

SPRINGFIELD — A House panel approved a bill Wednesday requiring that parents be notified of a minor planning an abortion, but the measure is not expected to survive on the House floor.

The House Executive Committee voted 7-3 to send the bill, which originated in the Senate, is more restrictive than a companion bill that passed the House in early April.

Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Collinsville, voted for the bill in committee but said he might not support it on the floor.

The Senate bill is opposed by the Illinois State Medical Society, a major source of Republican campaign funds, because it allows civil penalties against doctors who disobey the law.

The medical society is not opposing the House bill because any fines against disobedient doctors would be levied by a medical review board, not the courts.

Cartwright at Harvest church

Harvest Assembly will be hosting special services with Carol Cartwright of Tyler, Texas, beginning Sunday, May 7, at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., through Wednesday, May 10.

Services will begin at 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

Cartwright assisted her husband, Bob, in pastoring for more than 25 years in Baptist and nondenominational churches. They each today have ministries of evangelistic nature to local churches.

Cartwright's ministry takes her across the United States and to various parts of the world. As she teaches and ministers in the word imparting wisdom to the local church, various "signs and wonders" occur. In previous meetings at Harvest Assembly, inner emotional, spiritual and physical needs were revealed through a gift of knowledge, which is a gift of the holy spirit, and then many healings began to take place.

The focus of these meetings will be "The School of the Spirit." The Bible declares that "these signs shall follow them that believe." God confirms His word with signs following. All believers can have the manifest power of the holy spirit operating in their lives.

For more information, call the church office at 931-2500.

grams. "You just can't make a change overnight in a county of this size," he said.

Harris said the county must avoid the stigma of a county multiplier as a factor applied to better equalize assessment levels — to prepare the bills.

"It should be coming in any day now," he said.

Shinkus said that had it not been for the assessment freeze, the bills might have been mailed as early as May 1, earlier than past years.

He also alerted taxing bodies to the likely delay when he made the last distribution of 1994 property taxes.

Papa said the Tax Cycle Committee has met monthly to see that the process is going as smoothly as possible. He said he sympathizes with school districts and other taxing bodies whose cash flow is affected by the delay.

"They may have to borrow money and pay interest," he said. "That's the sad part."

On Tuesday, the Senate voted 58-0 to authorize enough bonds to pay for prisons and additions to help meet the exploding inmate population crisis, but the rest of the projects remain in doubt.

Democrats voted earlier against raising the overall bond limit.

Harlan Bengston, dean of the engineering school at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, said the potential delay from the bond limit dispute "is a matter of concern to the university. We would like to get the appropriation through as soon as possible and we are working for another six months or so if it doesn't happen in this session."

The university is ready to authorize final updates to plans for the building as soon as the appropriation is approved. SIUE officials hope they to get bids by the fall.

Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville, complained that the majority of Republicans have refused to unveil the rest of the capital program in a bill until the bonds are approved. That is contrary to past practice and is an attempt to entirely shut out Democrats from the budget process this spring, he said.

"We just want to be a player in the budget. I think we'll resolve it before we leave here and the SIUE building will be in. It's just a matter of timing."

The project might be delayed until the fall legislative session, Demuzio said.

Sen. Evelyn Bowles, D-Edwardsville, whose district contains SIUE, said she also is concerned about the engineering building. "I hope that money is forthcoming."

But Bowles said she voted against raising the overall bond limit in the vote last week because "we were not told what was going to be included in the capital projects."

She added that she hopes to get $87,000 added to the project list for an interpretive center at the Lewis and Clark Historic Site in Hartford as a match for potential federal money.

— From the Alton Telegraph

Finance Director Gene Logas said the district would probably have to borrow about $1 million from its building fund to make payroll in June. But a quirk in the pay schedule is as responsible for the need to borrow as the tax delay.

"At first I thought we would have just enough cushion in reserves that the delay would not force us to borrow. But we have the payroll to meet in June (district employees are paid every other Thursday) and will probably have to borrow from our building fund," Logas said.

Ken Miller, superintendent of the financially-strapped Madison School District, said the late tax payment would not affect the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Previously, Miller had told the school board he anticipated a budget surplus at the end of the fiscal year. This is important because several years of surpluses would allow the district to be taken of the State Board of Education's financial watch list.

"Our budget did not include anticipating any early tax money," he said. "But if we don't get any money in July we might have some problems."

The district's first payroll of the new fiscal year is July 7. Miller said the district may have enough money to cover the payroll, but he wasn't sure.

Science honorees — Sister M. Angeline, principal of Holy Family School in Granite City, has announced that two seventh grade students have been chosen by the Illinois Junior Academy of Science to compete in the state competition at the University of Illinois next week. The students are Elizabeth Mushill, left, and Michael Hopkins. Mushill's project is "Comparing Heat Retention" and Hopkins' project deals with the fat content in cookies. The students were chosen following the regional competition held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville March 24 and 25, which consisted of more than 400 entries. Holy Family science teacher, Cindy Meredith, was to accompany the students to the state finals in Champaign.

Classroom technology demonstration planned

Why must every classroom in Illinois have access to up-to-date technology?

There are 2,210,159 reasons. That's the number of children in public schools today who will need technology skills to succeed in higher education, get good jobs and take leadership roles in a world that increasingly depends upon electronic communication.

Some Illinois school children do have access to state-of-the-art technology. They will have a big head start as they go on to higher education and the world of work. But many other children don't have that advantage, and they will find it more difficult to thrive and succeed in a competitive world.

On May 10, you can see for yourself how technology enhances the schooling of Illinois' more fortunate children. "TECH 200: Students for the Information Age" will sponsor its fourth annual demonstration of classroom technology at the Capitol Building in Springfield. The demonstrations are sponsored by Gov. Jim Edgar, Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra, Sen. James "Pete" Philip, Rep. Lee A. Daniels, Sen. Ed Jones Jr., and Rep. Michael Madigan.

Kustra will host this year's demonstration. He was tapped by Edgar to carry out the initiatives that resulted from two technology summit meetings held in 1994.

"In today's world, textbooks are out of date before they are off the press," Kustra said. "Near-instantaneous global communication is taken for granted in government and business. Technological literacy is needed even for entry-level jobs."

In such a world, classroom technology cannot be considered an "extra." It is absolutely fundamental," he said.

Teams of students and teachers from more than 100 schools will take part in the May 10 demonstrations, including students from the Collinsville Area Vocational Center and from Triad High School in St. Jacob.

They will represent a cross-section of all grade and subject levels and students at all ability levels, from every corner of the state. They will show how technology helps students with disabilities work alongside their peers.

The public is invited to attend the TECH 200 demonstration. There is no charge for admission.

"It's a fascinating show," said Kathy Bjelland, 1995 TECH 200 chairman. "For those of us who did not grow up with technology, it is an eye-opening experience to see second-graders maneuvering easily through a complex mathematics program or composing music on a computer."

Briggs' bat leads GCHS past Knights

Warriors whip Howell N. 11-1

By Pete Dicrispino
Correspondent

Kyle Briggs went 3-for-4 with a home run, triple, four runs scored and two RBI to lead the visiting Granite City Warriors to a 11-1 victory over the Francis Howell North Knights on Wednesday.

Briggs did not let the rain and muddy field slow him down as he set the tempo for the Warriors in the leadoff spot. "We hit the ball today and Kyle did a nice job getting three hits," Granite City coach Gus Lignoul said. "He's only a sophomore, so he's only going to get better."

Briggs started the game with a bang when he tripled into right-center field. One out later, he scored on a sacrifice fly off the bat of Jason Wood for a 1-0 lead.

Sophomore shortstop Kyle Briggs had three hits, including a two-run homer, in Wednesday's 11-1 win over Howell North.

After a walk, he took Surber deep over the right field fence for a 4-0 lead. "I thought the ball was going to go foul," Briggs said. "The home run felt good. As a leadoff man, I was just trying to get on base."

THE WARRIORS WEREN'T done in the third and scored two more runs to open up a 6-0 lead. The big blow was a two-run single by Ryan Relleke. The Warriors sent nine men to bat in the inning. But while Surber survived the third, he could not get out of the fourth inning. After Briggs singled, Surber walked Brian Lloyd and then hit the showers as he was pulled for Mike Guinn. After Guinn retired the first Warrior hitter of the inning, he then promptly walked three straight to force home two runs. WITH THE BASES still loaded, Ervay singled home the Warriors' ninth run of the game. Quinn then walked in another run before exiting the game. "They hit and we didn't," Knights assistant coach Gary Egan said. "The walks hurt us and throwing home run balls on 0-2 pitches hurt, too." The Warriors had a comfort- (See WARRIORS, Page 3B)

Storms wipe out prep schedule

The Granite City baseball team's Southwestern Conference home game against Belleville East on Thursday was canceled because of rain and rescheduled to 4:15 p.m. May 17. The Warriors' rainout was just one of several during the week because of storms. On Tuesday, Granite City's SWC contest at Alton was also canceled, and rescheduled to 7 p.m. May 15. The Lady Warrior soccer team's game at Hazelwood Central on Thursday was canceled. No makeup date has been announced.

THE SWC GIRLS track meet, scheduled to be held Thursday at East St. Louis, was rescheduled for Friday at Collinsville. Thursday's Granite City-Bellefonte East softball game was rained out and will be made up 4:15 p.m. Monday at Belleville East.

Also canceled was the Granite City tennis team's Thursday match at home against Wood River. No makeup date was announced. The weeklong rain also forced the cancellation of this week-end's Granite City Sophomore Invitational. Teams scheduled to play in addition to the Warriors were CBC, DeSmet, St. Louis University High, Vianney, Wood River, Jerseyville and Freeburg. No makeup date has been determined for the tournament.

Brandt strong-arming foes with discus throws

Lady Warrior sophomore on track for state

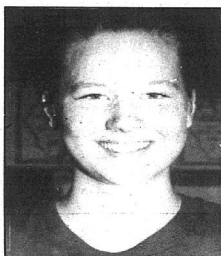

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

As the Granite City girls track team's discus and shot put thrower and one of the Lady Warriors' most consistent performers, Stephanie Brandt is often counted on to carry the weight.

Brandt, a sophomore, has led the Lady Warriors by scoring in nearly every meet and posting first-place finishes in the discus throughout the season. Her longest throw of the year, 132 feet, 11 inches, set a meet record at the Tiger Relays at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville last month.

With a determined work ethic and a well-trained technique, Brandt has established herself as one of the top competitors in the area — as well as the state. A returning state place winner who finished seventh in last year's Illinois High School Association discus competition, Brandt has improved her throws all year and hopes to return to state when she competes in Friday's Highland Class AA Sectional.

AS A FRESHMAN, Brandt went undefeated in the discus over the regular season and capped off her first year by placing in the Top 10 at state. This year, Brandt has been topped just once — and she has consistently surpassed this year's state qualifying mark of 117-0.

Stephanie Brandt

Considering she is in just her second year of high school, Brandt's accomplishments are impressive. She has gone undefeated in all but two meets in her prep career, and continues to improve each time out.

"She's been consistent all year," Granite City coach Gene Briggs said. "She shows up every day willing to do what she's supposed to do. She's definitely one of our team leaders. She leads by example. "She's had a lot of help from Coach (Larry) Curry. He's done a real good job with her. She's got the desire to work."

Largely because of her work ethic and past success, Brandt has set high goals for herself. As a freshman last year, Brandt routinely defeated older competitors and then won a sectional title to advance to state.

BRANDT WILL LOOK to defend her sectional title this week. The top two individuals in each event at Highland will advance to state.

Brandt's mission began earlier this spring, when she set several goals. All season, she has been ahead of the state qualifying mark.

"I haven't thrown anything under that this year," Brandt said. "I don't like to lose."

"I want to break 140 feet. At the beginning of the year, that was my main goal. Brandt's high standards are a result of her success at last year's state meet at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston. After winning the sectional and reaching the state finals, Brandt recorded a throw of 122-7 (See BRANDT, Page 3B)

Baker in synch with U.S. Diving

All-American duo teaming up in new event

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

With her breakthrough junior season at the University of Kentucky recently completed, All-American diver Jenny Baker is ready to test out even greater waters.

Baker, along with her Kentucky teammate, Tina Johnson, have teamed up to represent the Wildcats over the past three years as the squad's top two divers. This season, they established Kentucky as a school to be reckoned with when they led UK to its first Southeastern Conference women's diving team title.

But this summer, Baker and Johnson will embark on an even bigger challenge. Last month, the duo made the cut for the U.S. national team at the U.S. Senior Nationals in a new event, synchronized diving, and are now set to represent their country in several meets this summer.

BAKER AND JOHNSON have combined their talents in synchro diving and will compete in the event this week at the Pina Alamo Diving Grand Prix in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Depending on their success, they could continue traveling with the U.S. national team to meet this summer that could take them around the globe. The Alamo Grand Prix, which will be held Thursday through Sunday at the International Swimming Hall of Fame pool in Fort Lauderdale, will pit Baker and Johnson against other duos from around the world. The event is in its 26th year and will feature nearly 100 of the world's top divers from more than 20 countries.

As U.S. divers, Baker and Johnson will get their first taste of international competition. The 29-member U.S. team is being groomed for the next step — spots in next year's Olympic Games in Atlanta.

"We're excited," said Baker, a Granite City native and 1993 graduate of Granite City High School. "I'm going to be around a lot of different divers from a lot of different countries."

AT THE END of the final day of last month's Senior Nationals, April 23, Baker and Johnson received more than $700 worth of merchandise from Speedo — the sponsor of the U.S. diving team — after becoming official members of the squad.

They plan to travel to Fort Lauderdale on Tuesday and begin preparing for the meet this weekend. Baker looks forward to the trip for several reasons. Earlier this year, she missed her spring break because of diving competition with Kentucky. Baker has been training non-stop and (See BAKER, Page 3B) able 10-0 lead heading into the bottom of the fourth.

The Knights finally scored a run off GCHS starter Billy Niepert in the fourth, when catcher Corey Mitchell singled home the Knights' only run of the game.

"Billy Niepert did a nice job and we played well defensively behind him," Lignoul said. "He got ahead of the hitters and didn't walk a batter."

The Warriors added another run in the top of the fifth to make the score 11-1. They then called on relief pitcher Matt Tieman to shut the door in the bottom half of the inning.

Tieman came in with no outs and runners on first and second. He struck out Steve Steinbrugge, then got Adam Schmidt to ground into a double play. The game was then called because of the 10-run rule.

GCHS improved to 13-11, while the Knights dropped to 7-8.

"I'm very pleased with the way the team played today," Lignoul said.

•Brandt

Brandt bettered that throw by more than 10 feet this year. Last year's state champion, Danielle Mall of Lincolnshire Stevenson, won with a throw of 139-7.

"I think any time you're that competitive in your first year of high school is impressive," Briggs said. "She can only get better. If you are able to have a four-year career, that early experience is invaluable. She knows the ropes."

Brandt said she is glad the experience of going through her first state meet is over.

"I never really expected it," Brandt said. "I didn't think I'd go to state, but I just had everything together. When we got into the bigger meets, I started doing better and it got into my mind."

"I think I did pretty good (at state) but there were a lot of butterflies in my stomach. It was from the excitement of being there. This year, I'm going (out) to win."

Brandt has won most of her meets by a comfortable margin this season and has suffered just one loss. In an April 20 meet against Jerseyville, Brandt placed second despite a throw of 129-0.

"She had a really good throw," Brandt said of her competitor. "It really hurt because we've kind of been rivals."

"She had a good throw, but the other girl threw better," Briggs said. "That's something you learn."

"I think she always likes to win. She likes the competition. She seems to like it more when there's more competition."

Brandt had plenty of competition while growing up. Three older sisters all threw the discus at GCHS, and her oldest sister, Debbie, advanced to state three different times and placed fourth twice.

Brandt's other sisters, Dianna and Vicki, both threw the discus, but did not advance to state. All four have been coached by Curry, and now Stephanie is carrying on the tradition.

"I was always around it," Stephanie Brandt said. "When I was younger, I was just a shagger."

"She's learned about the event from a younger age," Briggs said. "That only encourages her, and it was an easier adjustment. But she still practices and doesn't take it for granted."

Brandt is a three-sport athlete at GCHS who also plays basketball and volleyball. At 5-11, Brandt is one of the Lady Warriors' most versatile athletes. She was a starter in both basketball and volleyball earlier this year.

But Brandt's greatest success has come in track. Among her goals are to place at state again and break the GCHS school record in the 100-meter dash. Brandt's record is 136-1.

Brandt's ultimate goal, however, is to win a state championship.

"That's what I'm hoping for," Brandt said. "I'm not going to be disappointed if I don't this year. I'm not really planning on winning this year, but if I do it will be great."

•Baker

finished up the school year this week.

"This really makes up for it," Baker said.

This weekend's meet will be the first for Baker and Johnson since last month's Senior Nationals in Midland, Texas. Baker and Johnson placed second in 10-meter platform synchronized diving to qualify for the national team.

Baker and Johnson just missed the cut in the 3-meter synchro diving event, and they almost won the 10-meter competition. The top two teams made the cut and they placed third in the 3-meter event.

"We were a little out of whack," Baker said. "We were winning the (10-meter) until the last dive."

Baker said the level of competition and difficulty of the event narrowed the field to less than a handful of teams. But Baker and Johnson managed to perform most of their dives in synch.

"It was a little scary because the platform was narrow and our arms were touching," Baker said. "But it was a lot of fun."

Baker also qualified in two other diving events individually, but she did not place as high. Baker missed the cut in the 1-meter and 3-meter events after qualifying for the Senior Nationals in both.

"I didn't do very well," Baker said. "As coaches sometimes say, I won the warm-ups."

Johnson, however, advanced by placing second in the 1-meter competition at the Senior Nationals and will compete along with the top two finishers in Fort Lauderdale this weekend.

Both Baker and Johnson, a native of North Oakes, Minn., earned all-America honors at the NCAA national meet with Kentucky earlier this year. When synchro diving became an event, they decided to give it a try and have been spurred on by their success thus far.

The chance to compete in the Olympics has also driven Baker, 22, and Johnson, 21. In synchro diving, competitors are judged both individually and for synchronicity. Divers attempt to perform in unison and enter the water simultaneously.

"They don't have it as an Olympic event yet, but I imagine it will be," Baker said. "I think it's going to be a real big event."

"I think we're real suited for it. We're the similar size and weight, and our diving styles are real similar. We've lived together for the past three years, so we should be able to dive together."

"We do the same dive, then a combination dive."

Depending on their success, Baker and Johnson could make their way to the Olympic trials for the 1996 Games. With her senior year at Kentucky on the horizon, Baker looks forward to this weekend as a chance to measure herself against some world-class divers.

"It will be a real learning experience," Baker said. "I think it's going to benefit all areas of my diving."

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19). If the pleasures of romance are on your agenda, you've already figured out what the day's about.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). At home, with older folks or alone, will be where you feel most satisfied. Fuss about in the garden as a form of meditation, and give yourself plenty of quiet and rest. A beautiful dream inspires you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Get involved with those who can help you find a bright new perspective — you're looking for ideas that you can get excited about. Short trips with friends to picnic spots or little shops are fun.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You may be given a gift of furniture or other large goodies. If you shop for big items today, do it in the bargain spots and you'll find more valuable treasure than the glamour stores can yield.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Energy and daring are a fine combination, but don't wear out everyone around you with your high-flying enthusiasm.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A special state of mind can be achieved with meditative effort, and you'll see clearly the proper course of action in a matter from the past that hangs heavily over you. Peace improves your health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Social situations enable you to meet a few new people who may figure in your plans for a special project. A hobby may bring fame. Pleasant time with those you trust the most will ready you for a busy week.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Be gentle in disagreeing with misinformed elders — you're surrounded by powerful egos, so be the generous one, secure in your competence and position. Your family asks you for advice through a rough patch.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Exciting possibilities come through being a good sport, ready to join in a new game or effort. Your community reputation is growing. Luck is with you, but there's no need to take unnecessary risks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Discover the true value of family heirlooms, and glow with pride over family accomplishments. Extend a helping hand next week to those who are carrying big loads at work. A secret is revealed at last.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18).

An element of surprise is key to the success of a venture you're planning. A true friend may be well-meaning but misguided in advice given today. The week ahead calls for optimum health — don't overdo it now.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). An impressive repair job you do now keeps you glowing with confidence all week — indeed, you are in control, and children respond by putting complete trust in you. Let love come to you.

Buying a used car shouldn't make you feel that way.

We've always thought the used car business could use a bit of a tune-up. So Saturn retailers are now selling Certified Used cars. Inspected and warranted used Saturns, sold with the same informative, no-pressure attitude as our new ones. Along with other used cars that go through the same kind of inspection as every Certified Saturn. Think of it as a used car experience that'll make you feel brand-new.

Computer Consultants stress value of diversity

Computer Consultants, 230 S. Berniston, is a company looking for computer wizards with a lot of diversity.

For over 30 years now, they have employed several computer experts.

"We work at a pretty fast pace here and a person has to be able to do a multiple of things," said Duane Kiser, manager of systems at Computer Consultants. "The main thing we look for in a job candidate is diversity."

"As long as they are not stuck in one thing we can use them," he said. "For instance, many people come to us after working in-house on the same thing over-and-over again."

Kiser said his computer consultants do a variety of things from installing computer systems to creating custom programs. The company also trains people on how to use the programs and systems after they install them.

Because computer consultants work with so many different systems, Kiser said the most important job skill is diversity and job candidates should be willing to "pick-up something new" and not want to specialize in just one system or program.

A job candidate doesn't have to have a four-year college degree but must have some computer classes under their belt as well as computer experience.

"We don't require a four-year degree because we found out that people who've been hired in the past that had one didn't always work out," Kiser said. "The ones we've hired who had just a few classes and experience worked out just as well."

"I suggest that they stay away from COBOL (classes) and things like that," Kiser said. "I suggest learning more about data base and Windows instead."

"We have no real restrictions here, just as long as they have a background (in computers)," he added.

Kiser suggested that anyone looking to become a computer consultant should "have some computer classes" in computer programming classes and to develop a "wide-range of knowledge" in the computer field.
